Submitted by admin on Fri, 07/22/2016 - 10:28am
Sprague is one of the biggest companies that produces an extensive array of power units, gas boosters, air driven power units, and more. The company was formed more than twenty years ago, and has managed to establish itself as one of the biggest brands in the industry. Sprague products are renowned for their exceptional quality and long-lasting performance. They are primarily used in certain industrial applications and plants. If you are interested in buying Sprague products, we at Boig and Hill Inc. have a pretty big collection.

All of the Sprague products [1] that we sell on our website are under warranty and are passed through pretty strong quality control checks before being released. As a result, you get top quality products with the guarantee that they have been rigorously tested and checked. We understand that many Sprague products are used for sensitive applications such as laboratory use or in industrial applications like charging accumulators. Therefore, through our quality testing process, we make sure that you never have to regret your decision of buying through us. If you are looking to buy quality products from Sprague through our website, the following guide will help you out.

Find What You Need

Whether you need power units or gas boosters, you have to decide on the model. Our website is very easy to navigate, and provides you with a complete list of all the different products you could want. When you first visit Boig and Hill Inc [2]. you should scroll down to the Sprague link. From there, you can choose from three different options: pumps, air driven power units, or gas booster power units. Depending upon what you need, visit the relevant link to confirm your selection.

Once you click on the item you need, you will be taken to a page that highlights all of the different models. On the left will be a small box that you can tick in order to confirm your selection. Tick as many boxes as you want (depending upon the number of variants available). You can then click on “Request Quote” in the top left corner.

What We Do

When you click “Request Quote,” the page will automatically update. You will then be required to provide important details regarding yourself. Input your name, company, email, address, and other information so we can understand you better as a customer. Once all of the information has been filled out, just click the submit button. We will respond within one business day and give you a detailed quote based on the selected model. We guarantee the lowest prices in the industry, so you don’t have to worry about being overcharged!

Source URL: https://www.boighill.com/blog/beginner%E2%80%99s-guide-buying-sprague-products

Links
[1] http://www.boighill.com/products.html
[2] http://www.boighill.com/